BE PRETTY! TURN
GRAY HAIR DARK

ry Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea
and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was at home, which is messy and inconvenient. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyerth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and easily. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

MRS. RICHARDS DROPS SUIT
FOR ALIENATION AFFECTIOMS

The alienation suit of Mrs. Martha Richards against John Richards, the accused, has been dropped by the plaintiff, according to reports. Mrs. Richards, formerly wife of Tom Richards, former Colorado Springs man, a year ago accused Mrs. Richards of having alienated her affections. The trouble culminated in a divorce suit, in which Mrs. Richards obtained a decreed. Richards was the original Chocolate Soldier.

DENVER GIVES $2,000 FOR M'CURG TOUR

Lecture Campaign on Coast and in East Apparently Assured

The Denver chamber of commerce has pledged $2,000 for the Gilbert McCurg campaign of lectures and publicity work at the California exposition and in the east. An announcement to this effect was received yesterday from President Thomas B.
Stearns of that organization, by the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce.

Several days ago at a meeting of the board of directors of the local organization a resolution was passed authorizing Mr. McCurg as a publicity man on account of the experience gained. Mr. McCurg has accepted this position as final and has now started his own campaign for funds. Several large subscriptions already have been received and yesterday he secured more than $500 after a few minutes' work.

Mr. McCurg already has a beautiful collection of pictures which show all the scenic attractions of the Pikes Peak region and various parts of Colorado. These he will use on his tour through the east and at the California expositions.

STRATTON HOME FARM TO BE DEVELOPED DURING '15

Trustees Getting Plans for Modern Poultry and Cattle Equipment; Expect to Make It Experimental Tract

Plans for the building of a modern dairy and cattle farm, a horse, barn and poultry house and a place for the feeding and care of hogs, are being prepared by the trustees of the Myron Stratton home. With the completion of the second unit of the home the trustees now are turning their attention to the improvement of the Stratton farm. The only new building this year will be along that line, according to Dr. D. H. Rice.

The farm buildings will be constructed with a view to future expansion, and it is hoped within a few years to have a model farm that will be a show place for farmers in all parts of the state. It is expected that the farm will be a source of revenue to the home and will supply the residents with food.

In addition, it is hoped that the farm will become a center for the breeding of high-grade stock and the demonstration of all modern methods of farming. The ranchers are making money and the housewives are getting satisfactory service, according to reports.

More Articles on Dry Farming in Colorado in Moody's Magazine

The dry farming campaign, which was started last in Moody's Magazine by E. H. Talbot, editor of the Railway Age Magazine, who spent several days in Colorado Springs last summer, is being continued in the February issue of the paper. In the February number Mr. Talbot reviews his past articles on the agricultural possibilities of eastern Colorado. In referring to his recent article Mr. Talbot says:

"The first article of this series referred more particularly to the section of Colorado east and southeast of the city of Denver and tributary to Colorado Springs. In the present article I shall refer to the conditions, experiences and developments in the territory east and northeast of Denver and contiguous to the lines of the Northern Pacific and the Burlington, both of which have, for a number of years, been active and efficient in all things looking to reclamation and development of the unsaturated lands from which their income must be derived.
In this great work they have stood alongside the Rock Island, the two penetrating sections very similar in natural elements and responsive alike to the same methods of exploitation and development."

The title of Mr. Talbot's article is "A New Agricultural Empire."

No More Fictitious Names on Doctel at Springs Police Court

At a session yesterday, presiding between Commissioner D. C. Johnson of the department of public safety Chief of Police Howard Stark and Magistrate Manning it was decided that in the future fictitious names will be barred from the police docket.
It was decided that no person whose identity is known to the police will be permitted to appear in court under an alias. John Smith is arrested and he is known to the police; he will appear as John Smith in police court and on the police docket. This will not permit persons to record publicly using a fictitious name.

100 SPRINGS HOUSEWIVES USING NEW POST SYSTEM

"Farm-to-Table" Service, Is Bringing Ranchman and Consumer Closer Together, Is Report

More than 100 housewives each week are taking advantage of the farm-to-table service of the purest post department, to have fresh butter, eggs, poultry and perishable produce sent direct to their homes from the nearby farmers. The ranchmen are making money and the housewives are getting
satisfactory service, according to reports.

While few consumers or producers have sent in their names to Postmaster O. W. Ward, to be used on regular published lists, there are a great number of both town and country people who have made arrangements with each other to have the food sent direct to town. A difficulty in the new service is the retarding disposition of the producer, who will not hand in his name. On the other hand, a number of consumers already have asked to have their names put on a list for direct service.

Most of the housewives have expressed themselves as satisfied with the condition of the food and the service, while at the same time the producers have nothing to grumble at.

WOMEN IN VIENNA

Vienna, Feb. 1. Everybody does their duty for the endangered fatherland. The poor woman of her way to factory contributes her mite to the collection boxes. The rich woman opens their parlors, bedrooms and kitchens to the wounded officers and soldiers. Not only do the women of Austria, France, England, Germany suffer from your deprivations, but the women in America are everyday suffering from the many ills that women are heir to.

The disease which weakens and torments women may in almost all cases be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, heals inflammation and disorder, and cures women's weakness.

Every woman who has reason to believe that backache, headache, unnatural pains, loss of sleep, nervousness, irregularities or a general condition is form, at any dealer in medicines. If you want to better your physical condition surely and speedily, every incident in "Favorite Prescription" is eases to diagnose your case, consult

SPRINGS MAKES BUILDING RECORD DURING LAST YEAR

Showed Big Increase in Money Spent but Decrease in Number of Individual Jobs

While the number of buildings erected in Colorado Springs during 1914 was less than in the previous year, their greater aggregate cost is estimated at $3,547, according to figures given by the Construction News, an advance proof of which was received yesterday. In 1913, 320 buildings were constructed and in the following year only 288. But the cost of the buildings in 1914 was totaled at $4,000,000, while last year $3,400,000 was expended.

Publicly shown a decrease in both the number and cost of the buildings. In 1913, 320 buildings were erected at a total cost of $3,400,000. Denver has made a decided advance. Last year 3,721 buildings were put up at a cost of $2,500,000, while in 1914 only 2,182 buildings were constructed at a cost of $2,730,148.

In view of the fact that 25 of the largest cities in America showed a total decrease of $50,512,925 in the cost of their total number of buildings, Colorado Springs takes a lead in the advance of money values, if not in actual numbers.

ISABELLA REPORT SHOWS PROSPERITY

dent; Daniel Thatcher, secretary-treas-

Portland Abandons No. 2 Shaft.

The Portland Gold Mining company has abandoned the sinking of its No.
2 shaft until some time in May, water hindering operations. The work was stopped 1,825 feet below the collar of the shaft and 107 feet below the surface level. The new level will be cut 125 feet below the seventeenth.
The water is receding at the rate of seven feet a month.

Elkton reached 20 cents on the local mining stock exchange yesterday, the highest it has been for some months.
Nine thousand shares changed hands at this price. Most of the stocks maintained their strength and the market was fairly active.

Golden Cycle Dividend.

The Golden Cycle Mining company yesterday paid a dividend of five cents a share on 1,500,000 shares, the second dividend of the present year. The disbursement yesterday amounts to $75,000.

MUCH LAND IN EL PASO COUNTY SOLD IN JANUARY

Report on Property Near Springs Shows Great Increase in Farmers.

Many Improvements Planned

The receipts of the land board for the month of January were $132,000, a large part of which came from the sale of state lands near Limon and Colorado Springs, according to the report of R. C. Parr, state land appraiser.
Parr's report shows that the efforts of the land board in disposing of the lands is drawing the attention of the people to the advantages of Colorado's agricultural possibilities. The report follows:

Denver, Colo., January 3, 1915.
The great resulting from the sale of the state lands of the public sale held in Colorado Springs on the third of September last is becoming more apparent each day, as one traveling through the sections where these lands were purchased is now impressed with the change which has so soon taken place. The comfortable homes which are being erected dotting the prairie, which only a year ago was a vast uncultivated country.

This is particularly apparent in driving over the lands east of Colorado Springs.
On the splendid road known as the Pikes Peak highway only a short distance from the city, the change is impressed with the extensive improvements erected by D. S. Bowman, who was a purchaser of 320 acres of state land at the sale held on September 3, 1914. In this short time Mr. Bowman has erected a two-story modern brick barn, garage, machine sheds and good substantial buildings, covered by the best of this country, drilled well furnished the best of water and a glance through the machine sheds shows one at once the manner in which they are already prepared to work this attractive farm, where we find an immense traction engine together with the disk plows and other ready to do the work so necessary to conserve the moisture for this year's crop.

Mr. Bowman has made a careful study of the best manner of preparing the ground and the different grain and crops which are adapted to the soil and condition of this particular section of the country. He has purchased 150 acres of state lands, where he has been able to purchase the adjoining section of 540 acres, numerous others relying on his judgment have applied for joining sections.

W. E. Davis and Sherman Rogers of Colorado Springs have together for 20 years carefully improved these lands where they expect to erect comfortable homes.
Mr. V. Smith and wife of Denver have applied for the next joining section with the firm intention of making a good home and acquiring a profitable farm. This is the existing condition. It has been proven that beautiful homes can be erected on these lands each and every individual is anxious to acquire a few acres on which to maintain a permanent home.

Each day sees a new start in one of these sections bringing many buyers state wide and looking to take advantage of the splendid opportunities offered.

Farmers throughout the country are beginning to realize that as they are desirous of securing these lands not that they will be profitable.

The section of the state lands being granted liberal terms and offering these lands to those who wish within the reach of the farmer who desires to acquire a few acres and make a permanent home, is a valuable and an easy and satisfying an assured income for himself and family.

FEEL BLUE OR JUST STIFF?

Although these are cold and flu seasons and it does not take long for constipation to produce a bad condition of the bowels, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, irritation of other organs. Indeed, when in this condition the system invites more serious illness and is not able to throw off disease. Foley's Cathartic Tablets are a choicest remedy for constipation, biliousness,
headache, indigestion, nervousness,
and all other ailments connected with the bowels. Robinson Drug Co. Adv.

Madame Marie Silwell and supporting company will appear in work recital in the hall of the Anti-Club next Wednesday and Thursday evenings under the auspices of Colorado Springs Woman's Relief Corps No. 4.

Madame Silwell stands prominently as America's leading contralto and her supporting company is composed of artists of recognized merit.

Colorado Springs is particularly fortunate in being able to hear these celebrated artists and their appearance will no doubt be warmly received.

THE EXPLOITS OF ELAINE

At the Empress today the first episode of the new serial by Arthur B. Reeve, writer and author of scientific detective stories, will be the feature for today. Arnold Daly, as Craig Kennedy, the detective, Pearl White, as Elaine Dodge, the heroine, and an all-star cast of Pathe players make an exceptional cast. The story of the first episode.

"The Clutching Hand," a master criminal. The Consolidated Insurance company of which Taylor Dodge is president has suffered considerable loss through the mysterious robberies of the master criminal known as "The Clutching Hand." Perry Bennett, a young lawyer, assistant to Dodge, is endeavoring to discover the criminal. Being of an affable and pleasing personality, he creates a deep impression upon Elaine, his employer's beautiful daughter. Dodge is visited by Lumpy Red, a woman known by "The Clutching Hand." Lumpy Red advises him how the mysterious crook can be found and gives him directions to find his lair. Dodge dismisses the woman, and on returning to his office finds a mysterious note, advising him to at once destroy the directions received. It is signed by a well drawn picture of "The Clutching Hand." Greatly perturbed, he returns to his home. Stepping out of his house, he is surprised to find an envelope with his name's trade mark pasted on the flap. Entering his home, he is met by Elaine, Bennett and Jameson, a reporter. He refuses to be interviewed by the reporter and enters his library, where he deposits Lumpy Red's directions in his safe. Jameson, hearing Dodge remark that he has discovered "The Clutching Hand," hastens to his friend. Craig Kennedy, a noted detective, tells him the news. Kennedy is greatly excited by this knowledge, and calling to Jameson to follow him, hastens on his way to Dodge's home, remarking that he fears for Dodge's life. Meanwhile, as night has fallen, two masked figures approach Dodge's home, and one of them forcing his way into the cellar dragging a bag, approaches the furnace pipe, and attaches them to it. Dodge, in his library above, as a precaution removes Lumpy Red's correspondence from the safe, and so saves it in a hidden recess in the wall and places a fake envelope in its place. Turning to answer his telephone, he steps upon a trap register on the floor. As he springs into the air, there is a powerful electric flash and Dodge sinks listless to the floor. The body was below him, and their work is done. A few moments later the masked intruder enters the library, moves the dead man and approaches the safe. Musing some picture, he places them on the top of the safe, and enters a false. There is a lightning flash and immediately a man is seen running through the door of the safe. The police have been called and a full investigation is being made. The police have been called and a full investigation is being made. The police have been called and a full investigation is being made.

Howard Estabrook, while having his initial experience as a moving picture actor in the lead of Traversa Gladwin in George Kleine's film version of the famous Cohan and Harris success, "Officer 666," wrote entertainingly of his conversion to the new art. Mr. Estabrook's point of view is that of most Broadway stars who have taken up pictures seriously. "Before I began making the picture of 'Officer 666,' I don't believe I had been inside more than two or three picture theaters in my entire life, and that was so long ago that the quality of what I saw would not tempt a second visit. But observe me now going into every movie theater I pass, if only for a few moments, spending quantities of 25 cent pieces and spare half hours watching the new magic of the screen. 'Maddin'-like, a wonderful industry seems to have grown over night. I recalled it as a few scattering five-cent halls. I find it with real theaters, offices, publications, weeklies, supply houses, etc. all seemingly sprung from nothing, but founded on that sure rock, the greatest entertainment of the greatest number for the smallest admission, and it can only go on and on. If producers will beware of what one cannot fail at times to detect, the sacrifice of quality for quantity. Count me a movie enthusiast."

"Officer 666" visits the Opera house for a limited engagement of two days, Friday and Saturday, February 5 and 6.

OPERA HOUSE VAUDEVILLE

The coming vaudeville show which opens at the Opera house tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 promises to be one of the very best which has been witnessed at this popular play house in some time. Some very good bills have been shown but to no comparison with this week's offering. Dixon and Dixon, the eccentric musical clowns presenting a very funny and unique act, are really good and very pleasing. The Nichols sisters, the only two lady black face comedienne on the famous Memphis Low circuit, are bound to please every one. They have been scoring tremendous success all over this popular circuit. Mella and De Paula, in bits of comedy and song are entertainers of worth and should prove quite popular. Charles Leonard Fletcher, one of the most familiar names in vaudeville, presenting character studies from life and literature. Toki Kishie, the Japanese juggler De Luxe, will be one of the finest and best novelty acts to be seen anywhere. The above bill including the three first-run reels of high class motion pictures will be the brightest two days in Colorado Springs this week and no one should miss this week's offering. Three shows daily, matinee, 2:30; evenings, 7:15 and 9:15. All seats reserved.

"First of all, 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' is a ripping good farce. Nevertheless, it has a purpose, if one wishes to call it that. It shows the utter foolishness of the popular novel; the impossibility of the situations; the prolific writers of today use over and over again. Not once during the two acts of the play does Mr. Cohan pretend to escape an opportunity to ridicule the melodramatic authors. In a very clever prologue the entire story is told in a few speeches how the popular writer is to turn out a 10,000-word novel in 24 hours on a wage of $5.00. In the acts develop the situations the writer is apt to use, and they appear real, even the audience believing them so until the last moment. Then the epilogue showing the writer completing his task within the time limit, and laughingly turning aside the thrusts of his friend about the crudeness of the plots he creates."

The company presenting "Seven Keys to Baldpate" at the Opera house last evening was very good; one of the best in fact that has appeared in Colorado Springs in some time. Cyril Scott made the role of the novelist, Marge, quite real and interesting. Lee Stetson got the real character of the small town police chief and his methods, and Spencer Charters put some good comedy into the part of the Hermit. Miss Ethel Intrepid was a captivating if not real newspaper reporter, and Miss Jean Shelby did at least one very realistic bit as a girl of the demimonde. The others were generally good.

And was not the whistling of the wind, heard so plainly whenever the door of Baldpate Inn was opened, realistic enough to make you almost shiver?

Of course, there were the usual intercomers to spoil the first half of the prologue. That is, they spoiled it because they were seated at the expense of about half the house and the satisfaction of a score.

CRUISER MONTANA AT PORT AU PRINCE, HAITI

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The cruiser Montana, with 600 marines gathered from the Atlantic fleet at Guantanamo, Cuba, was taken to Port au Prince, Haiti, to protect American interests. A report to the naval department from Rear Admiral Caperton, commanding the naval forces in Hayti, waters, summarized by Secretary Daniels, says:

Conditions unchanged and quiet at Port au Prince.

Admiral Caperton, who commands the cruiser squadron of the Atlantic fleet, has taken his flagship, the Washington, from Cape Haytien to Port au Prince. The gunboat Wheeling is at Saint Marie. Although Admiral Caperton does not discuss the military, it is supposed that General Guillaume's revolution forces are nearing Port au Prince to attack President Theodore at the capital.

The Washington was ordered to Cape Haytien when General Guillaume's forces were threatening that port. After the fall of Cape Haytien the revolutionists announced their purpose to march upon Port au Prince.

WOUNDED WELL CARED FOR BY RUSSIANS

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 1.—The Berlin Telegram publishes extracts from a telegram published military surgeon of the Russian army. It says all about the treatment of wounded prisoners at the hands of Russians must be carefully examined. He writes: "I saw a Russian soldier who on November 22 and 23 fell into the hands of the Russians. It must be stated for the sake of justice that they have been extremely well treated and that they are now in the hands of the Russians."

'SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE' IS A RIPPING GOOD FARCE

Cohan's Latest Laugh Producer His Best Company Very Good and Well Received

By F. R. W. Reviewers—who are supposed to keep in touch with everything theatrical past, present and future—are universal in the opinion that "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is the best farce in years—the number of years depending largely on the length of service seen by the reviewer in question. We of Colorado are scarcely in a position to make such a sweeping statement, since we have but two or three of the new plays before they are cleaned to stock companies, some half dozen years after produced. However, we can say with a little enthusiasm that George M. Cohan's latest farce is certainly the best thing he has ever done. And we can agree with others that it is the best thing he has ever done. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is based on the story of the same name by Earl Derr Biggers. We have never read the story, but it surely cannot be more interesting than the play. Mr. Cohan has evolved from it. And not the least interesting part of the play is that the author foils the audience until the last few moments—and the audience actually likes being fooled. Tradition says that the playwright must never keep a secret from his audience, but the sheepish grins when the mystery is cleared very plainly shows the fallacy of the rule.

Ripping Good Farce. "First of all, 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' is a ripping good farce. Nevertheless, it has a purpose, if one wishes to call it that. ### HEARING IN CONGRESS TURNS TO RELIGIOUS ARGUMENT ON ISSUES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Pending bills to exclude from the mails at the discretion of the postmaster general, libelous and scurrilous material, were subject to hearing today before the house postoffice committee. Discussion centered about religious publications.

Representatives Fitzgerald, Maher, Sullivan and others favored the legislation, while those who opposed it included the Rev. R. H. McKim, the Rev. Clarence A. Vincent of this city and S. Longacre, secretary of the National Religious Liberty association. The arguments drifted into a religious controversy.

REPORT SAYS RIO GRANDE TO GO TO THE BURLINGTON

Shakeup May Result in Running C. & S. Trains on D. & R. G. Tracks. No Verification

The control of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad is about to be taken over by the Burlington, according to a persistent rumor in railroad circles here and in Denver, and as the result of the change Colorado & Southern trains between Denver and Pueblo will be run over the D. & R. G. tracks, as the C. & S. is owned by the Burlington. According to reports, the change will be made about March 1. It has not been possible to obtain confirmation of this rumor, one Burlington official, who was in town yesterday, stating that he knew nothing of the proposed venture. Evidently negotiations are being conducted in the east and local railroad men of both companies can only hazard a guess on the outcome.

According to a prominent railroad man in Denver, the report is well founded.

General Shakeup March 1

A general shakeup in the administration of the Colorado & Southern railroad company's offices in Denver is set for March 1. The positions of general freight agent and general passenger agent will be consolidated, as they already are in this city. Following the resignation of T. E. Fisher, which will take effect March 1, H. A. Johnson will take the position of general freight and passenger agent in Denver. Koller will be the new general manager.

A number of other resignations will probably be handed in at that time.

GERMAN PAPER PRAISES SOLDIERS OF ENEMIES

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Lokalanzeiger of Berlin, discusses the fighting qualities of the allies' armies. According to Reuter translations, it considers the Wallons to be of slight military value but says that the Flemish regiments have proven themselves to be worthy descendants of their ancestors who won the victories of Egmont and William of Orange.

"Great Britain's efforts," it adds, "although accompanied of course by bluff regarding the creating of a big army proves a will to conquer which we honor in an enemy."

The French soldiers, the Lokalanzeiger says, have proved a surprise. "We have seen," it proceeds, "little of the supposedly French theatrical heroism and reckless bravado of every danger. On the contrary they have displayed estimable and praiseworthy military qualities. Their field artillery consists of good guns and performs excellent work and at their head stands an army commander who, though he had won no decisive victory, has secured a name in the list of most famous generals."

The Russians, the critic said, had displayed an unexpected capacity to utilize the terrain and an accuracy in artillery. "The fact that we found none of the 35,000 enemy wounded in Lodz, they all having been removed in good time and transported to Warsaw and the further fact that immediately after we compelled them to retreat they offered such a stubborn defense as proofs that the Russian command has learned much from celebrated retreats of Kutropkin in Manchuria."

SEVEN WORKMEN KILLED WHEN WALLS COLLAPSE

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 1.—Seven workmen employed in clearing away the ruins of a factory building, which was destroyed by fire two weeks ago, were killed today when one of the walls collapsed, burying them under a mass of brick and mortar. A dozen other men were hurt by flying debris and some of them seriously injured.

The wall, already weakened by the fire, gave way before the pressure of a heavy wind and sleet storm.

Chinese Mohammedans

Not Aiding the Turks

PEKIN, Feb. 1.—The report that Chinese Mohammedans have subscribed large sums of money for the war and other expenses of Turkey is denied by the leading Mohammedans in Peking. It is pointed out that the Mohammedans in China have but a flimsy connection with those of the Ottoman empire. With rare exceptions they are unable to read the Koran, which is not translated into Chinese. Only a summary of the teachings of Mohammed is obtainable and their faith is not by any means as ardent as that of countries nearer to the birthplace of the Arabian prophet.

AMERICAN FIRMS HAVE RIGHT TO BUILD HYDROAEROPLANES FOR BELLIGERENTS, SAYS BRYAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—In reply to Germany's recent protest against the building of hydroaeroplanes by American manufacturers for England and Russia, Secretary Bryan has informed Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that the state department does not concur in the contention that such craft must be regarded as vessels of war whose delivery to belligerent states by neutrals should be stopped.

"Accept, Mr. Secretary of State, the renewed assurance of my distinguished high consideration. (Signed) J. BERNSTORFF."

The correspondence on the subject was made public today by Mr. Bryan. On January 19, Count von Bernstorff wrote:

"Mr. Secretary of State: It has come to my knowledge that a number of hydroaeroplanes have been ordered in the United States for belligerent states from the Curtiss plant at Hammondsport, N. Y., and that a part of them has already been delivered."

"An airship named America was delivered in October of last year to England and five more hydroaeroplanes of the same type have been delivered since."

England has also ordered hydroaeroplanes of the J. N. model, 850 horsepower from Curtiss.

The motors for the aeroplanes are built partly by Curtiss himself at Hammondsport and partly by the Hamilton-Standard motor factory at North Tonawanda, N. Y.

"The wings are made at the Curtiss plant, the minor parts by the Autocrat Manufacturing company."

"The Tonawanda boat company furnished the hull part."

"There is no doubt that hydroaeroplanes must be regarded as war vessels whose delivery to belligerent states by neutrals should be stopped under article 3 of the thirteenth convention of October 18, 1907. Hydroaeroplanes are not mentioned by the convention simply because there was none in 1907 at the time of the conference."

"On the supposition that hydroaeroplanes are delivered to belligerents against the wishes of the government of the United States, I have the honor to bring the foregoing to your excellency's kind knowledge."

"Accept, Mr. Secretary of State, the renewed assurance of my distinguished high consideration. (Signed) J. BERNSTORFF."

Secretary Bryan's Reply.

In his reply, dated January 23, Secretary Bryan said:

"As to this assertion of the character of hydroaeroplanes, I submit the following comments: The fact that a hydroaeroplane is fitted with apparatus to rise from and alight upon the sea does not, in my opinion, give it the character of a vessel, any more than the wheels attached to an aeroplane fitting it to rise from and alight upon land, give the latter the character of a land vehicle. Both the hydroaeroplane and the aeroplane are essentially a craft. As an aid in military operations they can only be used in the air."

"In view of these facts I must dissent from your excellency's assertion that there is no doubt that hydroaeroplanes must be regarded as war vessels."

"In this connection I desire to call to your attention the fact that, according to the latest advice received by the state department from the German imperial government, including millions and thousands of machines, the best of the world's naval armaments are being built in Germany."

"It is thus apparent that the neutral government has placed a duty upon itself of all descriptions in the class of conditional contraband, for which an special treatment involving neutral duty is so far as I am advised provided by any treaty to which the United States is a signatory or adhering power."

Dog Meat Tastes Good in Far-Away Antarctic

Mawson Brings Back Vivid Story of Hardships and Privation in Southern Home of the Blizzard, Shows Pictures of the Expedition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Telling of his when dog meat and the meat of the blizzard was at its height, Mawson's story of the hardships and privation in the Southern Home of the Blizzard, shows pictures of the expedition.

When the blizzard was at its height, the men which was the headquarters of the party, had one window, which was in the roof. The breath of the men and the steam of the kitchen caused this to become frozen over to a thickness of five inches. Men going out to take the records of the climatological instruments had to break the ice that froze before their faces, from one side of their heads to the other, and pictures showing how their faces were covered with great patches of frost-bite, told an eloquent story of suffering.

But the scene was not all somber. The cellar was a happy place, and consisted simply of the space under the floor of the hut. When the cook wanted a piece of meat he would send a dog down to get a penguin or a leg of mutton, and would take it away from him as he came out. One day the dog got away with a leg of mutton, which was rescued only after a chase of two hours; and then it was damaged that the party voted to give it to the dogs, after all. Reading matter was in great demand. One of the party read the "Encyclopedia Britannica" through to the end.

Explorer Lost in Crevasse

On one occasion Sir Douglas set out with Dr. Mertz and Lieutenant Nimmo on a coast-charting expedition. After going about 200 miles, Nimmo and his sleds were lost in a great crevasse. Hours of calling brought no response, and the smashed-to-pieces sledges at the bottom told a painful story of his fate. Thereafter Mawson and Mertz turned around and started back to camp. They ate all the dogs, one by one, as they died by starvation. Finally there was only one dog left—Old Ginger.

"Old Ginger was a noble animal," said Sir Douglas, "and he was named to the last. But when he died of that sheer hunger of the Antarctic wilderness of ice and snow, Mertz and I had to eat his carcass. We ate the bones first, breaking every bone so as to get out the marrow. Raw dog meat may not sound well at the distance, or when one is in this far removed from the ultimate hunger in which the stomach seems to attack its very self, but there it tasted as good as anything you ever ate."

Finally, Mertz began to sicken and to weaken, and in a few days, January 17 it was, he died. I almost turned cannibal, so starved was my condition, but with it all I buried him, and then started back on the 100-mile journey that lay between me and safety. Sore of body and sick of mind, it was more by crawling than by walking that

'Going West' Used as Slang for Death by British Soldiers

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(correspondence of the Associated Press.) For the past few weeks a controversy has been going on in the public forums of the newspapers as to the origin of the soldier's phrase "going west," as a euphemism slang for death. Anti-superstition philologists and literary men have come forward with explanations, tracing the phrase variously to Druid mythology, Anglo-Saxon customs and various other sources. But a young officer now claims the following phrase as the real one: "So far from being ancient, the phrase 'going west' is quite modern. During the Boer war, at Aldershot some years ago, a monocular staff officer, galloping past a command, shouting in a high-pitched voice, shouting to the commanding officer: 'Tell the general that I have gone west.'"

The staff officer's monocular, high voice and personality so easy to identify, touched the humorous sense of the men, who began to use "going west" as a synonym for passing away in any sense. "If an officer's horse had been kicked over, his orderly would have said 'going west.' The phrase is used by soldiers in regard to the most trivial incidents. The fatalities of the present war brought 'going west' into current use for dying or being killed."

I was able to get back to camp, only to see the Aurora disappearing over the horizon. It had left provisions for me, however, and six men to search for me. Nothing but Providence saved me from the fate of Mertz and Nimmo. Sir Douglas showed pictures of beds of coal that tell of a time when tropical summer once reigned in this great home of the blizzards, and others revealing great ice cliffs with the stratified snows of a hundred winters upon them, each stratum standing out as clearly as though it were a different stratum of sedimentary rock.

CARLSON EXPECTS PROHIBITION BILL WILL BE ENACTED

DENVER, Feb. 1.—Gov. George A. Carlson, in an informal statement today, said he expects the administration bill for the enforcement of the statewide prohibition constitutional amendment to be enacted without change.

"The bill has been gone over by the administration leaders and, in temperance advocates," said the governor, "and I expect it to pass the senate without change after about three days' debate."

Touching upon the provision of the Peterson bill requiring a license for the sale of liquor for medicinal and sacramental purposes, the governor said: "This phase of the measure was thoroughly considered and, it was deemed better to include such a provision than omit it and provide penalties for law violations when liquor is sold for other than medicinal and sacramental purposes."

"When enacted the law will be strictly enforced," declared the governor, "if by any chance it should be defeated," he continued, "there are sufficient laws on the statute books to make the state dry after January 1, 1916, and they will be strictly enforced."

One of the principal opponents of the bill as it stands is Senator Hamilton of Denver. He proposes an amendment absolutely prohibiting drugstores from selling liquor for any purpose at any time. It will oppose the provision of the bill which permits drugstores to sell for medicinal or sacramental purposes in limited quantities upon the receipt of a bona fide physician's prescription.

As at present framed the bill limits the number of prescriptions which any one physician may issue in the course of a year.

POOR HORSES ARE SOLD TO DANES AT HIGH PRICE.—CHRISTIANIA, Feb. 1.—Norway has been selling a large quantity of very poor horses to Denmark at a very high price. For and old horses, indeed, fetch a better price than good ones, because the export of horses for military purposes is not allowed. The Danes sold many thousands of their best horses to Germany early in the war, and are now compelled to replace them with anything they can get.

BRYAN DENIES GREAT BRITAIN PROTESTS AGAINST SHIP BILL

Mann Raises Issue in House, Where Heated Colloquy Takes Place

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Insistent statements today by Representative Mann and other Republican leaders in the house that the state department has not taken any notice of letters from Great Britain regarding the pending ship purchase bill, today, drew demands from both Majority Leader Underwood and Secretary Bryan.

The note was alleged to have been from Sir Edward Grey regarding the proposed purchase of German or Austrian ships an unconditional sale.

When Representative Underwood denied the existence of the alleged note, Representative Mann said he had no doubt of the majority leader's sincerity, but was afraid the state department was not entirely frank with him.

"Information has come to me," said Mr. Mann, "in a way which I think makes it reliable that the state department not only has had communication on the subject but that the department has had a letter on the subject from an official of the British government."

Underwood repeated his denial when Mr. Mann suggested that the representations might have been made through "not in writing."

"It might have been a thousand things," replied the Democratic leader. "The bill pending in the senate has not one line in it that compels the purchase of a German ship or interferes with the sale of the allies. It leaves it discretionary with the board to be appointed."

Representative Lusk of Wisconsin suggested that Mr. Underwood make another inquiry of the department when Representative Underwood informed the house of the denial issued by Mr. Bryan. Representative Garner of Texas asked Mr. Underwood whether the British ambassador in discussing the subject had so on instructions from his government. Mr. Underwood said he did not think it necessary to answer further questions.

In his conference with newspaper men late today Secretary Bryan was asked numerous questions about the alleged note. He was asked if he had discussed the subjects involved in the shipping bill with any representative of any foreign government.

"I am not willing," replied the secretary, "to discuss with any foreign government the manner in which the power, if conferred, will be exercised."

The secretary was asked if any of the foreign governments had presented their views regarding the transfer of ships. He said he did not care to discuss the questions that were not connected with the particular proposition, and intimated that published reports had associated names received some time ago on various phases of the ship registry question with an application to the pending bill.

"While you were away," the secretary was told, "the government was made that the British ambassador had said to you that the British government would look upon the transfer of any vessels now interned in American ports—German and Austrian vessels—as an unconditional act."

"Go to the person who gave you that statement and let him confirm it," Mr. Bryan suggested.

At the British embassy Sir Cecil Spring-Rice refused to see newspaper men or discuss the published reports.

MINERAL PRODUCTION OF STATE $13,839,577 IN 1913

DENVER, Feb. 1.—The total value of gold, silver, lead, copper and zinc mined in Colorado in 1913 was $13,839,577, according to the biennial report of the state bureau of mines issued today. ## HUNGRY MOBS ATTACK THE BAKERIES IN ITALY

ROME, Feb. 1.—Meetings in protest against the high price of bread continue to be held in various provincial towns. On the island of Sardinia, the price of wheat has reached about $10 per quintal (220.46 pounds), which exceeds the price during the crises in 1898. Mobs in some of the villages have attacked the bakeries and the municipalities have been forced to disperse the mobs.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY WORK OF NATIONAL SCOPE

The United States geological survey is national in scope as well as in name. In the year ending June 30, 1914, geological investigations were conducted in 47 states, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Canal Zone. Topographic surveys were made in 25 states, Alaska, and Hawaii, and stream measurements were continued in 39 states, Alaska, and Hawaii. The total area covered by the geologists in reconnaissance and detailed surveys was more than 3,500 square miles, and the area mapped by the topographers was more than 1,000 square miles. An aggregate area of most important parts of the United Kingdom, the British dominions in work of the geological survey, last year included more than 10,000 square miles of public lands and areas of coal fields, phosphate and other farming lands greater than the area of all the New England states.

SANTIBANEZ KILLS CARRANZA'S BROTHER

Son and One Member of His Staff Also Executed by Disgruntled Officer

LAREDO, Tex., Feb. 1.—Gen. Jesus Carranza, his son, Alvarado, and Juanito Perdomo, member of his staff, were executed by General Santibanez, former Constitutional general, who deserted to Zapata, according to a telegram received by the widow of General Carranza from his first chief at Vera Cruz.

Mrs. Jesus Carranza, 56, refugee at Laredo, in giving out the information of the death of her husband, said General Carranza, the first chief of the Mexican Constitutionalists, had telegraphed her he would send troops to recover the body. Gen. Jesus Carranza and his staff were taken prisoners by Santibanez, recently near San Gerónimo on the Toluca of Tehuantepec, and his staff, according to reports, were executed immediately.

Carranza, his son, Alvarado, and Perdomo, officers, were held prisoners at that time by Santibanez, who had thrown his forces to the Zapata contingent.

The father, mother, wife and other members of General Santibanez's family, were recently reported captured in the state of Jalisco and sent to Vera Cruz, where Constitutionalists said they would hold them pending disposition of Jesus Carranza.

Victim of Revenge

Jesus Carranza was executed because General Venustiano Carranza refused to pardon Santibanez and his staff. Carranza was one of his generals. Carranza received here from Vera Cruz shortly after the capture of the first chief's brother, said Santibanez advised General Carranza that Jesus Carranza would be executed unless Santibanez was released to his command.

It was said then that the first chief's reply was that his brother was willing to die for the cause if necessary and that he (Venustiano Carranza) would have to let him die rather than pardon Santibanez.

The order went forth from Vera Cruz immediately, however, for troops to be sent into Tehuantepec to rescue the captured general and his staff. Apparently they arrived too late.

Santibanez formerly was a general in the federal army. Later he joined the Carranza forces, finally, leaving the army to join Carranza. Carranza was a very fine soldier. The taste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered substance. This is applied to the hair and skin as a mild exfoliant. It is not known here what caused Santibanez to hate Carranza.

Middle West Is Under Blanket of Snow and Ice Now

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—A snow and sleet storm covered the whole middle west today and tonight, halting telephone and telegraph communications, delaying trains and making road traffic in the cities almost impossible because of the icy streets.

In the west, the telegram companies were unable to reach points west of the Missouri river, the snow and sleet completely blocking the lines.

The storm, which began in the last of January, has been the worst of the season, and, according to Henry J. Lee, of Chicago, government forecasts are likely to continue for several days.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—This section of Nebraska lies under the heaviest snow of the season. Railroad traffic and communication lines are badly crippled.

POLICEMEN KILLED IN RAIDING 'BLIND PIG'

U. S. TO PROSECUTE ELECTION FRAUDS

Federal Government Assumes Jurisdiction of Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 1.—Indy M. Roberts, mayor of Terre Haute, and 26 others will be placed on trial in the United States district court here March 5, charged in a federal indictment with conspiring to corrupt the election of November 4, 1914.

Twenty others of the 26 who were arrested on the indictment, pleaded non guilty and probably will be placed on trial at the same time. The remaining 26 pleaded guilty, but have not been sentenced.

Judge Anderson, in a lengthy decision, sustained the government's theory that the federal government has jurisdiction over election machinery when members of congress and the United States senate are being elected. He also overruled the contention of the defense that the indictment was technically illegal.

It was that I am involved with me in this case," says Louis F. Brainerd of Indianapolis, N. Y., "in putting it mildly. I'm hooked to death with it."

HOW OUR FATHERS COOKED
Development of the Cook Stove From the Open Fire to the Latest Fireless Electric Range

From the Electric News Service.
Way back in the dim and misty past, ever and ever so long ago, the cooking of foodstuffs was unknown and man—primitive man—lived on fruits, nuts and raw vegetables. And, no doubt, he varied this diet with such exotics as wild berries, small birds and mammals as he could catch. With the coming of weapons, the obsidian pointed spear and the flint tipped arrow, man developed into an eater of flesh.

Weapons made him bolder, no longer did he fear the destructive beasts with their claws and fangs. It was easy for him to stalk and slay bird and beast, even the great mammoth and the giant sloth.

Just how the art of cooking began we shall never know. As far back as we have any record of man we know that he cooked his food over fire, after a fashion. The kitchen middens of prehistoric man show heaps of ashes, charcoal and half-burned bones, evidencing that early man knew the art of building a fire and made a serious attempt to cook his food.

In the earlier days when fire was first obtained, it was carefully cherished. The American Indians never allowed permanent camp fires to go out. When on long marches one of the tribe carried a hollow stone containing red-hot coals embedded in ashes. Fire was later made by striking flint and by other means.

Taking up the history of stoves, they are really modern inventions. Just as you can remember when your grandmothers remember when the cooking was done over the fireplace with the aid of a long-legged spider and a pot hung from an iron crane. There were few stoves in those days.

And so it was the same with their mothers and grandmothers, through all the ages, for until less than 200 years ago all cooking was done over the open fire or in Dutch ovens. Someone had a brilliant idea and brought the fire inside the house, with the aid of a chimney and a fireplace, where the cooking was done over the coals, just the same.

Late in the sixteenth century, Cardinal Polignac designed the first stove. However, one was not seen in America for many years after this, although afterwards, Count Rumford had a great improvement in it. It was in 1744 that the first stove was made for domestic use. The first stove was made of brick and had a large earthen side and back as a support for the pot.

These stoves were on the plan of an open fireplace. Benjamin Franklin journeyed to England and the 13th century in Philadelphia friends of a wonderful German invention of a stove, consisting of an iron box made of five plates fastened together with screws. One side of the stove was left open, and when set in position the open side, with a smoke pipe, was in an interior. When in ordinary use it was a fireplace, but the open side could be closed when dinner time rolled around.

In 1771 Franklin invented a stove to burn bituminous coal, which stove was arranged so that it would consume its own smoke. Franklin's invention had a downward draft. The later invented another design of stove, which had a bucket grate and movable bars at the top and bottom supported on a pivot. The top would be filled with kindling, then the bucket would be inverted and the fire would burn at the base.

The Franklin stove, considerably modified of course, came into general use in the United States between 1782 and 1825, and is still in use at the present time. There have been hundreds of modifications, etc., since Franklin's time, and much inventive genius has been directed to base heat, antiseptic devices, etc.

Perhaps one of the greatest aids to making stoves more convenient for modern cooking was the invention of the friction, or phosphorus match, in 1827. Previous to the invention of this style of match the chemical match was used for producing fire, and the sulphur match, for communicating it. Before this era tinder, flint and steel were the means by which fire was made.

The development of the modern cook stove owes much to the stove manufacturers of Troy and Albany. Long before the Civil war, Dr. Elphinstone North, of Union college, Schenectady, perfected a stove for the burning of coal. It is significant that this old Dutch style should be the stove of the development of the first modern electric range was produced.

Out of the coal stove grew the gas stove. Someone discovered that it was easier and better to turn the coal into gas and to burn the gas in a stove for cooking purposes. The gas stove removed much of the dirt and smoke and eliminated the handling of fuel and ashes.

The next step in the perfection of cooking stoves was the invention of the modern electric range by an engineer of the General Electric company, wherein the invisible fire of electricity was used to boil, bake and broil. The electric range draws current from the house wires, pushes the same as an electric lamp. At the pressure of a finger the stove is ready for use and the "fire" can be extinguished as quickly when the electric range is done. The electric range wastes very little heat. Every precaution is taken to prevent useless radiation and consequent waste of the heat. The heat is concentrated where it is needed, where it will be most effective and most economical.

BUYING AN AMBASSADORSHIP
From Harper's.
David Jayne Hill, former United States ambassador to Germany, relates the following illuminating incident in the course of his interesting "Dialogues" on the problems of our diplomatic service.

"A member of the Corps Diplomatique, in my presence, said to an American of great wealth who was living abroad, but had no personal distinction entitling him to the status of society, he was ambitious to obtain an ambassadorship.

"After a painful audience, which no one ventured to break, the judge, looking up from an intense contemplation of the table cloth, relieved the strain by asking:

"And what did the American say?"

"He said nothing," He merely laughed.

"And what did you say?" asked the editor.

"I made up my mind to resent the insult, as I felt it to be, and said, 'How much does an ambassadorship cost in your country?'

"What did he reply?" demanded the senator.

"I was expecting a blow in the face, and was prepared to answer it, when the man replied, very pleasantly, 'Thirty years of professional service, and a reputation for integrity, are the only qualifications required for an ambassadorship in this country.'

"As the gentlemen played in the judge's library before saying 'Good-night,' it was noticed that the senator looked somewhat vexed.

"Of course, that was only an impudent joke," he remarked to the historian as they left the dining room together.

"As it turned out, I was not upon reflection, disposed to take it seriously. I believe the man meant no harm, and was not even aware that we would record his suggestion as insolent. He was I think quite innocently giving advice to a friend on the strength of certain impressions he had received.

"But where could he have obtained such impressions?" queried the senator.

"The guests were already taking leave of their host, and, not wishing to linger behind the others, the historian replied, 'That senator is a question that might involve a long discussion.'
